GeoScienceWorld (GSW) is a nonprofit collaborative and comprehensive Internet resource for research and communications in the geosciences, which is built on a core database aggregation of peer-reviewed journals indexed, linked, and interoperable with GeoRef abstract and index service. The founding organizations are American Association of Petroleum Geologists, American Geosciences Institute, Geological Society of America, Geological Society of London, Mineralogical Society of America, Society for Sedimentary Geology and Society of Exploration Geophysicists.

GeoScience World (GSW) currently indexes and makes available online 45 high-impact full-text scholarly journals plus specialized searching capabilities and links to millions of relevant resources hosted elsewhere on the Web. The database contains over 3.5 million references to geoscience journal articles, books, maps, conference papers, reports and theses.

All the Faculty, Research Scholars and Students are requested to make the best use of this access facility.
