Dr Vijay Devadas is an Associate Professor and Head of Postgraduate Studies in the School of Communication Studies, Auckland University of Technology. Prior to this, he taught for more than a decade at the University of Otago. His research is located at the interface of media-culture-society, and his publications address key social, cultural, and political debates and issues across cultures and media platforms such as cinema, print, broadcast, & new media. He is currently working on three research projects: media and social life of youth in India; migrant workers in Singapore; and the nexus of cinema-celebrity-politics.
