

Three-Day Workshop on Feminist Research Methodology 20th -22nd March 2012

Feminist research has over the last decades emerged as a legitimate, relevant and popular research model. It is now a confirmed fact that research in Women's Studies and related disciplines would of necessity require a proper understanding primarily of Feminist Research Methodology. Understandably, feminist research would naturally seek a significant place for woman at the centre of all critical enquiries.

The Centre for Women's Studies proffers a three-day Workshop on Feminist Research Methodology. This Workshop would attempt to look at feminist research as a model guided by sound methodologies and producing valuable, high quality and socially just research findings.

The workshop hopes to provide guidance towards research primarily from a women-sensitive point of view. The workshop also aims to introduce the researcher to fundamental feminist perspectives, epistemology, theoretical positions and methods of research.

The workshop is intended to familiarize the researchers with feminist research tools and methods ranging from, and combining, quantitative and qualitative information, Life histories, Personal Narratives, Autobiographies, Memoirs, Testimonies, etc.

The resource persons are scholars of eminence who have worked with feminist research methods for several years and who will be providing the theoretical framework for the three-day course.

The participants of the workshop will be teachers and researchers already working within feminist research and also those intending to or beginning their work in this direction.

Scholars engaged in above issues, teachers who teach gender studies and doing research in any discipline of social sciences and humanities, as well as independent scholars engaged in women's studies research are welcome to apply.

Along with the applications, kindly attach a one-page note on your current research.

All applications should reach us on or before 14th March 2012
